The challenge

Design was at the forefront of thought when Interior Designer Bridget Foley renovated her stylish Wellington home. The focus on clean, elegant white backgrounds which allow pockets of colour to stand out, shaped a key requirement for the window coverings. The blinds must provide soft natural light to illuminate the room while providing privacy and sun protection. In addition to this, the blinds must stay in keeping with the minimalist look.

The SP solution

The Softlight™ range of fabrics offered the results Bridget expected. These fabrics filter UV light to protect furniture and furnishings, while allowing enough natural light to illuminate the room with a soft glow. Some Softlight™ fabrics also inhibit visibility to provide privacy. The combination of these benefits were found in Softlight™ Bone – an ivory coloured fabric with minimal texture which provides privacy and amplifies the natural light into the room. The result is a perfect one blind solution.
